

SCOTT ESCAPED GALLOWS THROUGH JUDGE'S ORDER

CONFERENCE ENDS WITH ALL FEELING
VERY MUCH HELPEDMeeting of Evangelical Delegates Here Was Very Successful

(Contributed)

The Sunday school and League convention held at the Grace Evangelical church closed its meeting last evening, after having witnessed an unusually large enrollment. Thursday morning devotional service was led by Rev. H. C. Stephan, who stressed very strongly the vital need of hearty cooperation under the Master's plan of being co-laborers with Him, workers together in Kingdom building. The fellowship of prayer and praise put hearts in tune for the messages and discussion of the forenoon. Bible study, Dr. L. W. Ames in his characteristic manner continued the study of Romans. He drew interesting comparisons between Romans, Ephesians and Thessalonians as to God's method in dealing with men. Romans meets man's need; Ephesians reveals God's purposes and leads on through the Thessalonian letter in working out His plan. The question of inbred sin arises with many and it was shown that Romans 6th Chapter, deals effectually with their condition. The fourth great question with the book study, "What is ahead, what am I to look forward to?" was very clearly and fully shown and clearly answered in the study of chapter 8, climaxing with the wonderful conclusion of this remarkable chapter. Sunday school problems: Dr. E. W. Vactorius, General secretary of Sunday school work from Cleveland, Ohio, conducted the conference. The speaker's thorough qualification for the work entrusted to him was evident by the masterful discussion he gave of the character, relation, and great task of the Sunday school. A most interesting general discussion of S. S. problems was launched by the reading of a number of questions by the delegates. These questions dealt with the organization, management, financing, and supervision of the Sunday school. The training of teachers, teacher's meetings, lesson helps, lesson material, grading of pupils catechetical instruction, religious education, and vacation Bible schools were also briefly discussed with keen interest and helpfulness to all present and will surely bear fruit in some of the schools represented at the convention and many were very loathe to allow the discussions to close at the appointed time and action was taken to continue at some later hour of the day the intensely interesting and needful consideration of timely topics. Another period given to the study of the Book of Romans under the scholarly teaching of Dr. Ames was enjoyed by all present. This book will be read with new interest and greater profit as we go over ways to our individual tasks. "What the Sunday school teaches that is not in the lesson quarterly" was presented by Mr. J. J. Guild of Geneseo, Ill., in uniquely well chosen words. Mr. Guild touched upon many phases of Sunday school work and spoke out of a rich experience in the work. With an enthusiasm that was contagious, he held the close attention of the audience and his message will not soon be forgotten.

The president of the Conference S. S. Board Rev. F. A. Hoerner gave an address on "The free will service of our Sunday schools." We have a force of over 1200 officers and teachers who are giving time and talent gratuitously in our Sunday schools, in order to give the best they can to the rising generation who can be induced to come under their supervision and instruction. The glory of the Sunday school lies in its purpose, not to seek reward but to accomplish a definite and specific work. The address was a ringing challenge to fuller consecration of time and talent to the great work at our door. Rev. F. W. Deutsche of Chicago, Sec. of the Board gave items and a report of the Conference Sunday schools as revealed by the annual report. The secretary brought forth some striking facts and noted things which should have our serious attention and consideration during the year. "The Menace of Spiritual Illiteracy" was the subject of a very carefully prepared paper read by Rev. M. A. Goss of Eldena, T. triple army of illiterates, not church and untouched by religious organizations was pointed out as seriously impeding the safety of the nation. Threatening the future prosperity of the church and greatly impeding the evangelization of the world.

The lowering of standards of ethical judgment and the increase in juvenile delinquency were made evident by the report of different surveys. Just how long our Nation may endure under such conditions is problematic and challenge our patriotism as well as our faith in putting forth greater effort to eliminate these perils that threaten our national foundations. Some very practical methods were considered and urged to meet the growing need was stressed. Solos were sung during the day by Miss Aletta Krug of Ashton and Miss Valeria Ferris of Rockford. The Sunday

Freed After Three Years in Jail for Refusal of Alimony

New Brunswick, N. J., July 24—(AP)—Jonathan T. Meeker, 72 year old alimony dodger, will soon be free from the Middlesex County jail, where he has been imprisoned three years for failure to pay his wife $12 a week. The litigation between the couple has covered 33 years and many of the judges and counsel who have been connected with it, have long since died. Meeker had stated consistently he would not pay the alimony. Finally, the county solicitor declared the tax payers no longer cared to support Meeker and had him released. Now he won't have to pay and the litigation is ended.

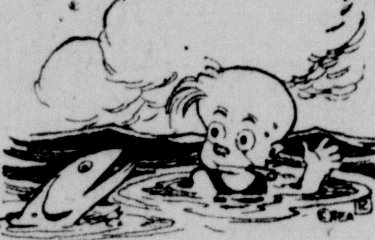

CO. HIGHWAY
PATROLMAN ON
BOOZE CHARGERaid Results in William Sindlinger's
Being Taken

William Sindlinger, county patrolman, whose farm home north of the city was the scene of a liquor raid yesterday afternoon, was taken into county court at noon today on an information containing five counts, covering sale, possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor. Sindlinger requested a jury trial of his case and Judge Leech set it for hearing Tuesday July 28. Bonds in the sum of $1,000 were signed by Mrs. Sindlinger, Albert Sherman and Ed. Lenox. What is said to be one of the largest liquor hauls made in months in this vicinity, was uncovered late yesterday afternoon when Sheriff E. C. Hisey and a force of deputies, acting upon information furnished by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, raided the farm home of William Sindlinger, north of Dixon near the Country club and on the Lowell park road. Whiskey, wine, beer and mash were but parts of the three kinds of liquors and equipment which were unloaded at the county jail about 6:30 last evening.

According to members of the raiding party, parts of a still were found hidden in a wood pile, a barrel of mash was uncovered in the heart of a corn field near the house, several gallons of moonshine liquor were located in the barnyard, hidden under burdock or in clumps of weeds. William Sindlinger was in Rochelle when the raiding party visited his farm and was arrested and taken to the county jail in Dixon upon his return.

LEECH UNANIMOUS CHOICE TO SIT IN
WINNEBAGO TRIALSAs Result He's Hearing
Liquor Cases in Rockford

County Judge William L. Leech spent yesterday in Rockford visiting in the Winnebago county court and hearing several liquor cases which are on the docket for trial. After one defendant had been sentenced by Judge Leon Zick of the Ogle county court, a change of venue was taken by attorneys representing many other alleged violators and Judge Leech was called into action. The Lee county judge did not have an opportunity to decide a single case yesterday, spending his time in listening to arguments, but will again occupy the Winnebago county bench Friday of next week.

The Rockford Register Gazette of Wednesday in commenting upon Judge Leech's being called to preside in the hearing of the many liquor cases in the Winnebago county court, says: "If Judge William Leech, Amboy, county judge of Lee county, can see his way clear to devote a few days to serving Winnebago county, the liquor cases scheduled for attention in the County court here this week will be resumed Thursday morning. The Lee county judge was the unanimous choice of both the state and the accused at a conference this afternoon. When State's Attorney W. D. Knight announced this morning that a presiding officer for the county court would be on the job Thursday morning and intimated that the county judge of Boone or some other adjacent county would be here, the information appeared to create dismay among the defense attorneys and a conference of counsel for the defendants followed.

A strenuous effort was made to bring about delay of further prosecution until the return from Chicago of Judge Fred E. Carpenter, but the state's attorney refused to listen to any program which meant delay in clearing the docket. He insisted that the defendants be ready for trial.

Agreeable to Carpenter. "Judge Carpenter was reached by long distance phone this afternoon and on learning that Judge Leech was favored by both sides he instructed his clerk here to get Judge Leech on the wire and request his presence in Rockford. Judge Leech was not available at once but messengers were sent to locate him and in the event of his acquiescing in the arrangement, the trials will start again tomorrow. Judge Zick returns to Ogle county tonight, as the defendants have all asked for a change of venue. "Overtures were made by counsel for some of the defendants today looking toward a compromise for 30 days in jail on a plea of guilty but the state's attorney will consider nothing under a fine of $500 and a jail stay of 60 days in any case left on the list.

Over Million British
Miners Ready to Strike

London, July 24—(AP)—Between a million and a million and a quarter miners in Great Britain will go on strike July 31 if the notices sent out by the executive office of the miners' federation to terminate the existing agreement between the miners and mine owners is obeyed in all fields. These are the estimates both of the miners' federation and the mine owners.

The decision of the miners' executive to call a strike on July 31 was taken last night. It followed upon more than a week of unsuccessful attempts to bring the miners and mine owners together for the negotiation of a new agreement to take the place of the one which expires on the day on which the strike has been called.

Hundred Injured While Watching Sailors March

Melbourne, Australia, July 24—(AP)—One hundred and three persons were injured, some seriously, when the veranda of a motion picture theater collapsed during a parade of sailors of the visiting American fleet today. No one was killed and none of the American sailors was hurt. A record crowd turned out to welcome the blue jackets and many hundreds of people crowded on the veranda cheering. Without warning the veranda gave way and the spectators were plunged in a heap.

LOONEY'S LAWYER
WARNED BY JUDGE
AGAINST PASSIONCalled Barbour "Liar" and Judge Cautioned
Him Again

Rock Island, Ill., July 24—(AP)—Judge N. A. Larson, presiding over the conspiracy trial of John P. Looney in circuit court here, today warned William C. Allen, chief counsel for Looney, that he would not tolerate any further display of passion in the courtroom. The judge's warning was made during a verbal clash between the opposing attorneys, when Allen concluded his argument by calling Senator J. J. Barbour, of the prosecution, "a liar."

"I cautioned you before when you used that term in this courtroom," Judge Larson said to Attorney Allen, "and I want to warn you now that I cannot tolerate any further display of passion as evinced by such language."

Senator Barbour had charged Attorney Allen with coaching the witness, John Looney, who is on the stand in his own defense. Continues Denials. Looney's testimony throughout this morning was a continuation of yesterday's story, tending to offer a complete refutation of the state's evidence previously given, and to perfect an alibi regarding his associations and conduct during 1921 and 1922, during which period he is supposed to have committed the crime for which he is being tried.

He denied that he ever had any dealings with Tox Cox, then chief of police, and that he had only a "speaking acquaintance" with him. He explained his signature on the checks of William Gabel, said to have been paid Louis Ortell for protecting, by saying that Ortell owed him money, and that the checks had been given him in payment, and that he had then endorsed and cashed them. He denied having any knowledge of how Ortell came into possession of the checks or why.

Failure as Witness. Regardless of what kind of witness Looney is proving for himself with the jury of 12 men who must ultimately decide his fate, he has proved a distinct failure with the court and scores of others who crowded the courtroom yesterday to see him on the stand. Though considered the

FORMER DIXON LADY DEAD AT
DENVER, COLO.Amy Scott Garnsey
Passed Away There
on Wednesday

Robert H. Scott received the news last evening that his sister, Amy Scott Garnsey of Denver, Colo., had passed away. Although not in vigorous health, Mrs. Garnsey did not become seriously ill till about three weeks ago, when she was removed to a hospital, where she died Wednesday, July 23rd. A complication of ailments, including pneumonia, which developed recently, caused her untimely summons.

Amy L. Scott was the sixth of a family of seven children, of Robert Scott and Ruth Fairman Scott, early pioneers of Marion township, Lee county, where she and her brothers and sisters were born and grew to mature years. The father, Robert Scott, died when Amy was eleven. In 1891 the family removed to Dixon.

Shortly after the death of the mother in 1898, Amy was united in marriage with Harry K. Garnsey of Dixon. To this union two children, Ruth, 24, and Harry, Jr., 14, were born, both of whom with the husband and father survive to deeply mourn the loss of a devoted, Christian mother and loving wife.

At an early age, the deceased united with the M. E. church, and to the end, was a devout Christian, with a sublime faith and trust in God and a future life, devoting much of her time and efforts to church work and in Christian service.

FIRE TO PREVENT SAVING EIGHT IN A
TENNESSEE SHAFTForced to Seal Mine Up and Abandon Effort to Save Miners

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 24—(AP)—Advices received this morning from Rockwood by the Chattanooga News state that the entrance to Bryson's Dip has been sealed and that all efforts to recover the remaining eight bodies before the fire burns itself out have been abandoned. It may be a month before the flames subside, in the opinion of the rescue workers.

Rockwood, Tenn., July 24—(AP)—A holocaust threatened here early today as fire, which has been smoldering in the heart of the Roano Iron Company mine for four days swept away the barriers and gnawed its way toward the spot where eight men were entombed by an explosion yesterday. Rescue workers who labored throughout the day and night to reach the imprisoned men, cast aside all hope of finding them alive as they temporarily abandoned search to fight the flames.

Four groups of relief workers had passed into the depths of the mine last night before the half dead miners, goaded by after damp fumes, burst into life and drove them from the mine. One of these groups had brought to the surface two members of the party of ten miners which had been in the mine when the blast occurred.

With the finding of these bodies, virtually all hope of discovering any others of the party alive, disappeared.

Buying Powers Hard
Coal Miners Increase

Atlantic City, N. J., July 24—(AP)—Anthracite miners as a result of extension of their contract, since 1914, have now have 63 percent greater purchasing power than in 1914, operators said today. In this respect it was said the miners are better off than workers in any other basic industry.

The announcement was based on the reports of statisticians who are preparing the case the operators ultimately are to present to the miners in the joint scale conference.

INSANITY PLEA, MADE BY LAWYERS AFTER MIDNIGHT, GETS STAY OF EXECUTIONHearing on Plea Will Not be Held Until Monday, Aug. 3

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—Almost at the hour of his death march, Russell Scott early today escaped the gallows for the second time within a week.

The former Canadian financier, twice reprieved from paying the supreme penalty for the murder of a Chicago drug clerk in a holdup, dodged the noose for the third time less than four hours before he was to have been executed, when Judge J. B. David granted a stay of execution pending a hearing into his sanity.

Called Judge From Bed. A week ago, six hours before he was to hang Gov. Small granted a one week's reprieve which expired this morning. Judge David, called out of bed a few hours before the time for the execution, convened a special session of court and granted the stay after Governor Small and the state board of pardons and paroles last night at Springfield refused further clemency.

This morning the gallows trap, set for springing a week ago, stood without its victim, and jail officials who had left it standing during the week of grace, were considering dismantling it. The sanity hearing will not come for several days, Judge David set the sanity hearing for Monday, August 3.

Had Abandoned Hope. Scott's escape from death today, like that a week ago, came after he and his relatives had virtually abandoned hope. Thomas Scott, his father had called at the jail three hours previously to bid him a last farewell, the second such visit in a week.

Mrs. Catherine Scott, his faithful wife who for weeks fought to obtain a commutation, played what she believed to be her final card in Springfield, where she appeared before the pardon board and when the stay was granted, was rushing from Springfield to Chicago by automobile to bid her husband farewell almost at the minute of his execution. She arrived to find the court action stopping the hanging.

Scott Much Surprised. Scott, who had been surly and defiant throughout the night, and who apparently was completely resigned to his fate, received the news that his life was spared, at least temporarily, with considerable surprise. He had known nothing about the last minute appeal to the courts.

"I'm tickled to death," were his first words.

Then upon learning that the stay had been granted to find out whether he were sane, Scott added:

"I am no more crazy than the judge who granted me a stay on that account. I am not asking for any sympathy from any one either. I am innocent."

Scott's sudden and unexpected escape from the gallows was as dramatic in its way as the desperate last minute efforts in his behalf a few hours previous, that had proven so unsuccessful.

Board Refused to Act

Yesterday new counsel, hastily summoned by Scott's friends, had hurried to Springfield where they met the Governor and board of pardons and presented a plea for a reprieve, attacking some of the state's witnesses and maintaining they had uncovered new leads which they had not had time to develop. The board, however, refused further clemency, and Governor Small concurred in the action, pointing out that Scott already had received two reprieves.

Upon receiving this news which apparently sealed Scott's fate, Mrs. William McGraw and Mrs. Isabel Hurst, both of Detroit, representing Detroit club women who raised $5,000 for Scott's defense, hastily retained William S. Stewart, criminal lawyer, who recently successfully defended William D. Shepherd, accused of the murder of Billy McClintock.

Home After Auto Trip of Nearly a Year

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Derr arrived in Dixon last evening after an automobile trip, the like of which it is the privilege of but few to enjoy. Gone from this city eleven months and one week, they traveled over 20,000 miles and were in twenty-two states.

Leaving here last August in a new car, which they had had equipped like a Pullman, they struck for the east, visited all the historical spots in that section, drove from Portland, Me., to Florida along the Atlantic and spent the winter in Florida, in which state alone they drove about 5000 miles.

They slept in their car and spent almost the entire time in the great outdoors, as a result of which they have returned home much improved in health and with a rich store of knowledge of the beauties of America and the importance of her historical centers.

THREE AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS TOOK LIVES OF PAIRCrashes Within Single Hour on Oahu Isle
on Thursday

Honolulu, July 24—(AP)—Two courts of inquiry have been ordered to investigate three airplane accidents on Oahu Island yesterday when two army officers were killed and a third was severely injured. Two others, a noncommissioned officer and a private, also were seriously injured.

Those killed were First Lt. J. A. Wyatt, Hampton, Va.; and C. L. Morse of Lancaster, N. H. Second Lt. J. F. McBlain, District of Columbia, suffered a compound fracture of the jaw, severe lacerations and possible internal injuries. Morse was attached to the 19th pursuit squadron and Wyatt to the 4th observation group. McBlain is connected with the latter command.

Second Crash in Hour. The accident in which Lt. Wyatt was killed, occurred within an hour of the first crash. Encountering engine trouble Wyatt made for a small field to land. His plane crashed into a high tension electric wire killing him almost instantly. Staff Sergeant Soule, accompanying Wyatt was seriously injured.

The third accident happened shortly after. Lt. McBlain, with Private J. W. Hankins, acting observer, went in search of Wyatt's machine. Locating it, they made a landing, but in doing so, it crashed into the same wire about 500 yards from the scene of the earlier accident. Both men were badly injured and the plane broken up.

Bootleggers Taken by Clever Ruse in West

Tillamook, Oregon, July 24—(AP)—A romantic looking fisherman's cottage, especially built on the edge of this seaport town as the purported scene of a motion picture, an order at a hotel for forty rooms and announced arrangements to build a light house at Maxwell's point where a "storm" was to be enacted, duped seven alleged bootleggers into making deliveries of liquor last night for forty moving pictures actors, who were to have arrived today.

The actors were assisted in their arrangements by a man who called himself "W. R. Francis," technical director for the Lee Film Corporation of Hollywood," here to film "The Daughters of the Sea."

A wrecking car from Dixon was summoned and pulled the machine back onto the road.

SANITY PLEA
MADE BY LAWYER

Stewart Conceived Idea

Stewart was who conceived the idea of asking for a stay of execution, an action similar to that taken three years ago to save from the gallows Gene Geary, notorious gunman, whose execution was stayed while his sanity was tested. Later he was sent to an asylum.

At midnight, their last desperate step decided on, Scott's friends and Stewart started their hunt for a judge to issue the stay. Judge David, called from his bed, agreed to call a session of court if his bailiff and clerk could be found. Then, with the minutes ticking away, clerk and bailiff were rushed to the county building where, in a dimly lighted courtroom on the tenth floor the hearing was held.

A little group of newspapermen, the judge, the attorneys, Scott's friends and his aged father made up the gathering. The petition signed by Scott's father, recited that the condemned man has become insane since his incarceration 15 months ago in the county jail.

State Not Notified

After asking a few perfunctory questions, Judge David immediately announced that he would sign the order and within 20 minutes from the time court had been convened, the stay of execution had been granted.

Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, was not present, or represented at the court session and apparently did not know of it. George D. Gorman, his assistant, who prosecuted Scott, when informed of the action, said: "I have not a thing to say except that they tried to fool the Governor a week ago and now they are trying to make a fool out of Judge David. This man deserves the rope and he will get it before we are through."

Refused Radio Appeal

One of the reasons assigned by Attorney Stewart for believing Scott insane was his refusal last night to broadcast by radio an appeal to his brother, Robert Scott, indicted with him, but never apprehended, to surrender and save him from the gallows. A microphone had been placed in Scott's cell, but he refused to utilize it.

Mrs. Scott, driving madly toward Chicago after once having become lost, was met by reporters at the outskirts of the city and informed of the court action. "Thank God," she murmured and was whisked into town.

Scott, it developed today, issued a last minute statement last night to a newspaper reaffirming his innocence.

Almost at the time the stay was granted, word came from Port Huron, Mich., that Robert Scott, the condemned man's brother, was believed to be critically ill there. Officials however, were inclined to believe it was another of the many hoaxes sent in concerning the whereabouts of the missing Robert.

THINK THRILLS FAKES

Port Huron, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Two thrills believed by officers to be fakes, were added to the efforts being made to save the life of Russell Scott.

The first came when a bottle was picked up in the St. Clair river containing a note addressed to Russell Scott and purporting to be signed by his brother, Robert.

The second was furnished by Mrs. W. J. Monley of this city who telephoned to Chicago early today that Robert Scott had been at her home, Ill., but had left for Chicago to save his brother.

Mrs. Monley, who operates an apartment house, was questioned early today by officers, after receiving a telephone message from Chicago police to investigate her story. She told them that a man giving the name of "Frank Smith" rented a room from her on Thursday. About midnight he became ill and raved at her door, she says she arose and fixed some hot drinks for "Smith" and it was then that he told her that he was Robert Scott. She said he left about 2 a. m., today stating that he was going to drive to Chicago in an automobile and that he had to get there in time to save his brother.

CARD OF THANKS.

We extend to our friends and neighbors to the societies and clubs and to Robert's class of 1920, our most sincere thanks for the many tokens of esteem for the flowers and the expressions of sympathy shown us during his long illness and death.

DIXON GOLFERS
LOST YESTERDAY TO ROCKFORD

Dixon golfers enjoyed a splendid day of sport on the green courses at Rockford yesterday, the guests of that club. Rockford triggered the Dixon Country Club by a score of 33 to 15. The standing of the Dixon players, and handicaps, were as follows:

Roe	80	85
D. E. Raymond	77	89
Leland	77	86
Sickels	76	87
Pitney	81	88
Lager	68	86
Coppins	80	98
Crawford	75	93
Eyers	68	90
Weiner	81	88
E. B. Raymond	73	86
Schuck	80	86
Stokes	86	96
Dysart	81	87
Armington	81	107
J. B. Crawford	69	90
Rasch	87	113

Whereas, we consider it most fitting to express our sincere gratitude to those who have in a special way contributed to the successful promotion and completion of this twentieth annual Illinois United S. S. and E. L. C. E. Convention; therefore,

"Resolved, That we give to our brethren, Revs. E. W. Praetorius, General Secretary of S. S. and E. L. C. E. L. W. Ames, and H. R. Heininger our hearty thanks for their counsel, instruction, and inspiration which they have given most unselfishly during the course of this convention."

"Resolved, that we express our appreciation to the members of the Dixon choir, and to those who have used their God-given talents to cheer and encourage our hearts."

"Resolved, that we tender to our retiring officers a vote of thanks for their time and effort during the past two years, and in arranging and carrying on this helpful program to a successful completion."

"Resolved, that we extend to the editor of the Dixon Evening Telegraph our thanks for the publicity he has given this Convention in his paper."

Over 200 delegates and friends enjoyed the splendid dinner and hour of fellowship Thursday noon and the enrollment reached 148. Surely this has been a royal feast for soul and body as well to the Evangelical host.

Thursday evening, much of the enthusiasm of this splendid convention had been infused by the song leader Rev. F. L. Reetzke of Chicago. The selections were most fitting and sent home the pungent truths which cannot fail to put our hearts and minds into perfect harmony with the Master's purpose. Very earnest prayer under the leadership of Rev. H. B. Jensen of Ottawa preceded the evening message. Dr. Ames gave the sixth study in his series on the book of Romans, covering the last five chapters. "This was opened by the statement 'Faith in the look of Romans authenticates itself with this present dispensation by proper conduct.' This was impressively established by a careful exposition of various verses taken from these latter chapters. In gracious terms the speaker expressed his appreciation for the fine fellowship experienced during the entire convention. Miss Vivian Graves of the local church gave a most touching message in song."

The closing address of the convention was brought by the general secretary Rev. E. W. Praetorius. With the eye of the artist he looked into the face of all faces as portrayed in the book and with words most fitting that face drew in its majesty, sympathy, compassion, loveliness, at once reverent, firmness, authority, finality and Deity. The claim of this Christ was so forcefully put and the marvelous word picture so vividly painted that no thoughtful mind and heart can forget its call. A consecration followed the message at which time seven young people yielded themselves to definite Christian service; one came to Christ for the first time for salvation and many others moved forward to various appeals made by the speaker. The service closed with singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Anyone wishing information as to a school for girls of grade high school and junior college age accredited to state universities and one of the oldest institutions of the middle-west is asked to communicate with Miss Annie Eustace, Assembly Park, Dixon, Ill. 15617

Mrs. RAND OF CHADWICK HAS BEEN VISITING MOTHER—

Mrs. Crystal Rand, daughter of Mrs. L. E. Burket, of this city, has been enjoying a visit with her mother, while here as a delegate from the Young People's League of the Chadwick Evangelical church.

HAVE BEEN GUESTS AT BRINK HOME—

Mrs. George H. Wykle and family and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schreiner and family of Chadwick have been guests since Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Carrie Brink during the convention of the Sunday schools and Young People's Societies of the Evangelical churches, being held here this week.

Mrs. Wykle is the wife of Rev. Wykle, pastor of the Evangelical church at Chadwick, who has been busy in his work at the convention while here. Mrs. Schreiner, who is Mrs. Brink's daughter has also been a delegate from the Chadwick Sunday school. They have enjoyed their work while here at the convention and their visit at the Brink home very much. Louis Gilton, nephew of Mrs. Brink, is also here from Wisconsin visiting his aunt.

Sylvene Haefner is Bride Harry Lally

Sylvene Haefner and Harry Lally were united in marriage in Amboy at St. Patrick's church Saturday morning, Rev. T. J. Cullen officiating. Catherine Lally, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and Sylvester Haefner, brother of the bride acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding chief actor in the most sensational episodes in the history of this county, today but a handful of spectators were present to hear Looney's testimony.

Of medium height, stout and showing the weight of his 55 years, he does not present a startling picture. He wears a plain brown suit of heavy material, but appears not to notice the heat of the courtroom which has caused the jurors and others to appear in shirt sleeves. He talks slowly and in a low tone, and that quality of unusual vigor and activity, generally accredited to him, appears to be entirely lacking in the Looney of today, as he sits and answers the questions put to him.

LIFE—

Life has its morning, noon and night; Its dawn, its prime, decline; The eastern sun—its zenith height, Its westward course, are thine and mine;

A wise design has ordered thus for all mankind,

It has its springtime, summer, fall; Its sunny hours and cloudy days; Its gushing joys, and then a call

To ponder "God's mysterious ways," Uncertain is its changeable clime,

Uncertain winds beat on its way, And yet its seasons, in their time,

Are certain as the judgment day; A heart resigned and trained to wait,

Believing, kind and true— And trained to trust—the small and great,

Each traveler needs to cultivate. God give such heart to you,

For God alone can fear ally, And Heaven alone can give you cheer

When evening shadows end your "day,"

And winter comes to close the "year."

—Adam Murrman.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Color Value.

Colorful vegetables such as green peas, beets, carrots and pimientos molded in clear gelatine and served with mayonnaise make a delicious salad.

Children Like It.

An ice cream cone filled with strawberries and whipped cream is a dessert that children love.

Flour and Grease.

The pan in which you bake a sponge cake should be greased and then dusted generously with flour.

So. Dixon Community Club Holds Meeting

A regular meeting of the South Dixon Community club was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Jensen, all enjoying an exceedingly pleasant afternoon.

There was a large attendance of members. The meeting opened with the singing of "America," and roll call, followed by a short but interesting program, including a paper by Mrs. Glessner and a reading by Mrs. Shipper, both being very good and were heartily appreciated. The program and business meeting were followed by a social hour. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Jensen, assisted by Mrs. Carson and Mrs. Tourtellot.

The next meeting of the South Dixon Community Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Pine, August 5th.

Picnic at Assembly Park Well Attended

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies of St. Paul's Lutheran church held a most enjoyable picnic yesterday at the H. M. Rasch cottage and grounds at Assembly Park. The day was ideal for a picnic and everyone attended prepared to have a good time, and certainly had it. There were seventy-three present, and all enjoyed very much the elaborate picnic supper served at 6 o'clock.

So Useful, Too.

We are glad to say that this year the students "trimmed" the faculty in the ball game. They threaten to pay us back next year. We're not worrying as yet.

Sunday was a great day. Many visitors on the grounds. Dr. Gale led us in a very impressive service in the morning. The afternoon Sacred concert was in charge of Rev. Stiller. He had a fine orchestra organized from those attending through the week. Also a choir. Special numbers were given by each League. Dixon was well represented. Gordon and Richard McNicol played a cornet and trombone solo. Russell Mason gave a flute number.

Rev. Wray O'Neal's address on "Seers of Visions" gave us a very good idea of how we see what we carry on our eyes. And its influence on life. It made a very plain definition as to the differences in Reputation and Character.

Everyone will be glad to hear that with the approval of the Central Office Rev. Moore will be the Dean again next year and Rev. Hutchinson will continue to care for our comforts. Next year's Institute is from July 12 to 19.

Our estimate is that all photos snapped on vacations will be shown to almost everybody.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH HENRY SUTTON

Harmon—John Sutton has received the sad news of the death of his brother, Joseph Henry Sutton, a former resident of Harmon, which occurred at his home near Hastings, Neb., Saturday, July 18. The deceased was born in Hawkins county, Ohio and was 74 years of age at the time of his death. He came to Harmon with his parents in 1854, when he was three years of age, and lived here until March, 1900 when he moved to Nebraska, where he remained until his death. Funeral services were held Monday morning, July 20, at the Catholic church in Donphan, Neb., with interment in the cemetery at that place.

Mr. Sutton never married, but he was a great favorite among the young people of Harmon and vicinity during his residence there, being a talented musician, which made him popular in all of the gatherings there. He was respected and revered by all who knew him.

He leaves to mourn his passing, the following brothers and sisters: Martha and Alvin, who made their home with him; Mrs. L. Stevenson, Harmon, Neb.; George Sutton, Donphan, Neb.; James Sutton, Larchwood, Ia.; John F. Sutton, Mrs. Peter Fitzsimmons, Mrs. John Kelly, Harmon; and Mrs. James Foley, Walnut. Three brothers and one sister preceded him in death: William Sutton, Brock, Neb.; Thomas J. Sutton, Harvard, Neb.; Oliver Sutton, Medford, Ill.; and Mrs. H. S. Sierken, Trumbull, Neb.

DOWN TO BRASS TACKS.

They're down to brass tacks at Griswold, Iowa, on the issue between gasoline trucks and railroads. It looks as if the railroad is going to win. The Rock Island operates a line out of Atlantic to Griswold, the center of a rich farming community. It is one of the best corn counties in Iowa. It is not far from Omaha, and truck lines have been established, taking away the railroad's business. The railroad officials ordered a train or two taken off the branch. That brought the matter down to brass tacks.

It was a fine thing to have the railroad there to be used when other means were unsuitable, but the people thought they always would have it. When they discovered that Griswold was to have one train in and out a day, they began to see things in a different light. They began to consider the railroad, which had been a legitimate subject for abuse many years. The Cass county farm bureau and the business men of Griswold began to work together to keep the trains. They circulated petitions, which not only were petitions, but they were something more substantial. They were pledges. They pledged the signers to use the railroad and not to use trucks when railroad service was available.

Rock Island railroad officials are quoted as saying that Topeka, Kas., is the only other place in the west where the people have resorted to such extreme measures to retain railroad service.

The outcome of the Griswold pledge is not yet known. It will not make much difference to the people outside of the town whether or not it has a train. The principal point of interest is that the people and the railroads are going to sit down together and attempt to solve their difficulties. The people are not trying to hammer the corporation with the railroad commission. They know the trains have not been receiving the patronage, and they know why they have not been receiving it. There is no way of dodging the issue.

The same issue is arising all through the country. The railroads are taking off trains and revising their schedules. The Illinois Central is asking the Illinois commerce commission to authorize removal of sixteen trains from its lines at Decatur and Rockford. From these points not even a protest comes. The people know that the trains not only are not used now, but there is no prospect of profitable use in the future. Neither petitions nor pledges are worth anything there.

LEGS.

Probably everyone has heard the tale of the London bus conductor who, noticing a woman reluctant to descend the steep stairway from the upper deck, reassured her with, "Never mind, lady, legs is no treat to me."

There seem to be some grounds for hoping, or fearing, if you will, that the average American male is rapidly approaching a similar frame of mind.

Short dresses have been with us, off and on, for years, and the effect is sinking home. No longer do young men point and leer when a girl boards a street car. No longer do the corner loungers strain their eyes when there is a bit of wind. A girl can sit in a street car with her legs crossed without attracting attention.

It's a healthier state of mind. Let's hope it continues.

DISAVOWED.

There may be comfort for fundamentalists in the fact that Sir Arthur Keith, generally considered the foremost authority in the world on evolution, declares that the famous "ape-man's" skull recently found in South Africa is not the skull of the "missing link" at all, but the skull of a young ape.

Scientific men had hoped that the skull was indeed the long-sought-for skull of the link between ape and man. Sir Arthur disillusions them.

But, on the other hand, his statement ought to silence some of those enthusiasts who have been charging that men of science always strain a point or two to bolster their pet theory. Sir Arthur didn't.

CANCER.

It is wonderful news that comes from London—that the germ of cancer has finally been found.

Scientists now can work toward a cure with more hope. Meanwhile, however, remember this: cancer can usually be attacked successfully if you get at it early enough.

If you have a small foreign growth of any sort on your body, consult a physician. If he advises removal, have it done at once.

Delay may later mean just another case of "incurable cancer."

Thus far the newspaper vote is that President Coolidge is violating nothing in refurbishing the white house in colonial style, discarding the French of the Roosevelt regime.

"If evolution wins, christianity goes," says Bryan. He may as well have said, "After me, the deluge." It will not and it is not.

It does no harm to take out the artillery and shine it up once a year.

German Nationalists are disillusioned. No responsible leader had told them that their mark would be good and their bonds worth par if Hindenburg was elected, but the impression that some such thing would happen was subtly spread.

The whole atmosphere of the Nationalist movement was the memory of old Germany, and the dream that it could be restored by voting to do so.

Of course it can not. The world which ended on August 1, 1914, will never be restored in Germany or anywhere.

Perhaps the German Nationalists had to find this out by experience. If so, their present disillusionment may be one element in turning the face of the world forward.

WHERE THE BRITISH WAY IS BETTER

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain told the British Parliament that the British secret service had indisputable evidence that "another government"—meaning, of course, Russia—was fostering the Chinese troubles.

Secretary Kellogg had the same evidence, and similarly wanted to make it public.

But he did not go into Congress and tell what he knew. Our system does not admit anything so simple and direct.

Instead, an anonymous article appeared in the newspapers, which every experienced reader knew was inspired, but which made no direct statement to that effect.

There was nobody to question or criticize it, and nobody was formally responsible for it.

Is there not something to be said in favor of the British way—which is also the way of practically every other free government in the world, except our own?

VERY SERIOUS CHARGES IF THEY ARE TRUE

Bolshevik-baiting has become so common a hysteria that the temptation is to discount it.

But when the heads of the two most cautious and responsible governments in the world officially or semi-officially declare, under the responsibility of world-wide publicity, that they have evidence that Russia is behind the present troubles in China, and when the American government inspires a suggestion that Japan is counter-planning in the same field, it means that this evidence exists, and that either it does establish these facts or these two governments have been duped.

Either some one has forged documents so successfully as to deceive the experts of the British and American secret service, or else this mischief is being done, in China, by influences from outside of China, which bode no good to the stability of China or the peace of the world.

Such statements ought not to be authorized unless they are absolutely known to be true. If they are true, they are a challenge to the peace-loving powers of the world.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton
THE WALKING ROSE BUSH

"Certainly not," said the sharp fellow.

"Look, Nick!" cried Nancy. "There is a bee on that rose. It must be one of the Fairy Queen's honey bees. Let's follow it and see where it goes."

The bee flew from one flower to another while the twins watched. When it had all the honey it wanted it made a bee-line for some place far away.

Nancy and Nick never could have followed it had it not been for their magic shoes.

But at last the bee flew into a garden. And the twins were just in time to see it crawl into a golden hive.

"It's one of the Fairy Queen's bees! It's one of the best!" cried Nick. "There's the hive and everything. Hurrah!"

"Who is 'hurrahing' around here?" asked a sharp voice. And a sharp fellow appeared suddenly before the astonished children.

"We are," said Nancy. "Aren't we allowed?"

"Certainly not," said the sharp fellow. "I'm Johnny Thorn, at your service. I'm the watchman of the roses in the Land of Wonders. If you talk too loudly the roses shed their leaves. Then I'll lose my job, and that's all there is to it."

"We're sorry," said Nick, "but we'll have to have the golden beehive and all the bees, too. They belong to the Fairy Queen and she hasn't had any honey on her bread since the week beforelast."

"You don't say so!" remarked Johnny Thorn in surprise. "Those rascals of pixies never told me that. Oh dear me! I've stood too long in one place. I've taken root and I'm growing. I completely forgot that I had to keep moving. Now see what you've done!"

Right before their eyes, poor Johnny began to sprout leaves all over him. They grew out of his ears and eyes and nose and mouth, his arms turned to branches and so did his legs. In about four seconds Johnny Thorn had turned into a large green rose bush with great red roses all over him.

Instantly there was a loud buzzing and all the honey-bees began to swarm over the new bush like a lot of flies in a sugar bowl.

"Look," whispered Nancy. "The bush is moving."

Sure enough! The bush that had once been Johnny Thorn was moving along the ground in a peculiar manner and waving its branches with a sort of beckoning motion.

It moved out of the garden and up the road, the bees still sipping honey out of its red roses.

"I'll get the golden hive and take it along," said Nick.

So he got the hive and carried it without any trouble, although it was almost as big as a milk-pail.

Then he and Nancy followed the walking rose bush.

Finally the rose bush stopped. "This is as far as I can go," it said. "Clap your hands and all the bees will fly into the hive. Then shut the little door in front when the last bee is in."

It all happened just as the bush said.

"Now pick up the bee-hive and climb over the stile," said the bush. "Then see what happens."

The twins picked up the hive and climbed over the stile.

Suddenly everything changed. The Land of Wonders had vanished. Gone was the stile and the rose bush. They were standing before the secret cupboard in Pixie Cave.

THE TANGLE

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE—CONTINUED

Again, Little Marquise, Mr. Sartoris hesitated, and again I was about to arise, when he said:

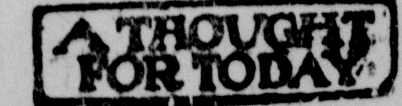

"If my father could have given me back my faith and hope in mankind, I would have blessed him, but instead he died as he had lived, bitter and unbelieving in the truth and loyalty of any human being, even myself."

"When I came home to settle up my father's affairs, I renewed acquaintance with my neighbors in the small eastern village where my father had built up a large estate. These people, however, seemed almost afraid of me. I never was able to make friends with them."

"One day, in one of my solitary walks about the country, I met a girl. She was sitting beside a stile, and her horse was tied to an adjacent tree. She was weeping bitterly. At first I thought she had been thrown and sprained her ankle or hurt herself in some way, and I went up to her and asked if I could do anything for her."

"At my question she lifted two of the most heavenly blue eyes I have ever looked into, shook her head, and began to weep afresh."

"I persisted in trying to help her, however, and at last, with many a sob she told me that she had that morning spent her last cent in the world—that everything she had left from a comfortable fortune which her mother had bequeathed her two years before, was gone.

"She told me she had known nothing about business affairs, and had left all hers in care of a man who had robbed her, until with his thievish and her own extravagance, she had now come to the end of her string."

"She had saved her horse until the last, for it seemed to her he was the only creature on earth that had loved her. Tomorrow she must sell him. The very thought brought on another burst of tears."

"You know, my dear Leslie, it was the old, old story—beauty in distress, and a man taken unawares."

"I felt my heart beat strangely. Surely here was someone, that was honest! I was absolutely sure that I was a perfect stranger to her."

"The girl's exquisite loveliness and pitiable condition moved me more than I had ever been moved before. She was so helpless! I wanted to care for her. I found myself wanting to take her in my arms and comfort her."

"It was not long before I was telling her that I would lend her the money she needed to open a little book store, going in as a very silent partner. She seemed to accept this as innocently as I evidently proffered it. It didn't seem strange to her that a young man who met her on a country road should immediately become her creditor for such an amount."

U. S. ARMY ACTIVITIES

Told The Associated Press by General John J. Pershing, Ex-Chief of Armies.

Washington—The following is the fifth of a series of six articles describing activities of the Army of the United States during the summer months of 1925, given to The Associated Press by General John J. Pershing, author of the series.

By General John J. Pershing

As a nation we are fortunate to have abundant natural resources; splendid industrial organizations, progressive commercial and financial institutions. These are priceless national defense assets.

But our greatest asset is not our material resources. It is the American himself. Our greatest potential asset is not to be found under the ground nor in new inventions. It is the youth of our country, the boys of today who will be the American men of tomorrow.

For years, we have had our Department of Commerce which has so successfully fostered the foreign and domestic commerce of the nation. We have had our Department of Agriculture which has assisted the farmer in making his fields more productive and his cattle of better stock. As a result of these and other departments, great strides have been made in our material resources.

But what of our people? The World War revealed a startling decline in their physical strength. One young man in four had to be turned down for a physical disability of some kind. Every other man was unfit for battle service. One in four could not read or write.

Few knew much about American ideals or principles. We had been assuming that our people were healthy and that they were American. Not until the National Defense Act of 1920 has our national government had a department devoting its attention to the development of our youth. Of course, for generations, the Army and Navy had been training men who enlisted in these branches of national defense, but these have always been small in numbers, totalling less in size than a medium sized American city. No department is better qualified for this work than the War Department, for it is strictly non-partisan and purely American in character.

Our summer camps are great schools of citizenship, where courses of instruction are given on the "meaning of Liberty," "Constitutional Government," the "Duties of Citizenship," and "American History." These to my mind, however, are not as far reaching as the practical lessons that are taught by the experiences gained in actual camp life.

In these camps the young American learns by actual practice the meaning of service to country, self-discipline, cooperation, respect for the rights of others, the importance of law and order, the value of leadership and teamwork, and what is constructive as opposed to negative citizenship. They feel the thrill of being an American and understand the sacrifices that have been made and are being made by others that they may be Americans. They realize how fortunate they are to be Americans and the duties they owe for the rights that are theirs. The Regular, National Guardsman, Reservists as well as the boys of the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. are taught and inspired by such lessons and surroundings.

Courses are given at our summer camps in hygiene, the prevention of diseases, and physical health. But these to my mind are not as important as the practical lesson that is learned from actually living clean, orderly, active lives and eating proper food. The remembrance of that will stay with them. Great physicians are now saying that the military training given during the World War has actually saved many more American lives than were lost upon the battlefield. This is undoubtedly true. There are no battle deaths at a summer camp, but on the contrary, vigor is given to life.

There is no better illustration of the citizenship and health-producing benefits of our military training system than the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Thirty-five thousand young men will be gathered together this summer from every state in the Union. There will be young men from the slums of the large cities; there will be young men from the homes of our most wealthy and most prominent citizens. The son of the President of the United States will be on the same plane, at this coming summer's camp, as the son of a recent emigrant to our shores. Young men from farms will mingle with young men from the industrial centers. These camps have a great leveling influence and give the young men attending a splendid opportunity to understand the viewpoint of others who have entirely different outlooks in life. That is Americanism in practice.

The improved attitude and the improved physical condition of the young men attending these camps produce better citizens and prepare a reservoir of young men far more competent for call or selection in case of emergency.

The health statistics that were given out by the officers in charge of the Citizens' Military Training Camps last fall are most remarkable. In the 9th Corps Area, 2,333 students from the States of California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming were gathered at five different camps. The young men were given a careful physical examination when their months training started and when it finished. It was found that these 2,333 young men gained over three tons in weight or to be exact, 21-4 pounds each. One of the boys gained during this short month 18 pounds in weight.

The average gain in chest expansion of all these young men attending camp in the 9th Corps Area was .44 inches. The average gain in height was .27 inches.

It is most natural that the parents of these young men who have been fortunate enough to attend camp should be enthusiastic about the splendid results obtained at the camp. It is most natural that each year there should be more and more applications to attend the C. M. T. Camps. The time is not far distant when, instead of training 35,000 young men, we will be training 100,000 each year.

The records of the World War showed that the health of the young men of our nation was not as good as we expected. Out of every four young men drafted, one had to be turned down for disability of some kind. This serious situation must be corrected. The most practical way of accomplishing this is through the extension of the C. M. T. Camp idea.

At the present time, many of the young men who apply are unable to qualify physically. In these cases, careful letters are written by the officers in charge to the parents of the young men, stating the cause for their son's rejection and suggesting that the family physician be consulted so that the defects may be corrected, and so that the young man might be physically improved to such an extent that he could attend the camp next year.

The officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army, National Guard and the Reserves, who conduct these training camps are performing a great national service. They have become skilled and proficient instructors in this far reaching task. There is no governmental service so important and lasting as the mental, moral and physical welfare of our future citizens.

It is too early to measure the benefits to our country of the summer camps. It is doubtful if their full value can ever be adequately estimated. But we do know that as a result of them, Americans are going to be better citizens, and that the America of the next generation is going to be a better country than the America of our generation.

OBITUARY

JOHN MARTIN JACQUES

(Contributed)

John Martin Jacques was born June 25, 1847 and died July 18, 1925 at Lincoln, Neb., his remains being buried July 21 in Wyuka cemetery, Lincoln, Neb. He was formerly a grain buyer at Harmon, Ill., where he resided for some years and about 40 years ago was a partner of the late O. E. McIntyre of Amboy. He leaves one daughter and two sons of Lincoln and his wife to mourn his passing.

ROBERT P. BRENNER

Robert Prescott Brenner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Brenner was born in Dixon, Illinois on the 31st day of May, 1902. He grew to young manhood in Dixon and attended the public schools of this city. Like thousands of other young men he was very much interested in the late war and grew restless because his age prevented him from taking an active part in it. So deeply interested did he become that after the war was over he hurried to Chicago and at the earliest opportunity, on July 28, 1920, he enlisted in the United States Hospital Service at Chicago, Illinois and was sent at once to Hampton Roads, Virginia where he remained until July 14, 1921 when he was transferred to the United States Naval Hospital at Fort Lyon, Colorado. He remained in Colorado until February 25, 1922 when he was transferred to the United States Naval Hospital at League Island, Philadelphia, Penn. from which he was given a physical disability discharge and sent home on the 14th of December, 1922. In the latter part of January, 1923 his case was taken up by the Veteran's Bureau of Chicago and he was sent to the Speedway Hospital at Maywood for treatment. He had been under treatment continuously from that day until the day of his death. At times he seemed to respond to the treatment and high hopes for his recovery were again and again entertained. But these periods were followed by relapses which gradually robbed him of his power of resistance until the battle was plainly a losing one. About three months prior to his death he was brought home from the hospital and everything was done that the physician's skill and loving hands could do to prolong his stay. It was in vain. He steadily failed until on Sunday evening, July 19, 1925, his eyes were closed in death. His age was 23 years, 1 month, and 19 days.

Robert united with the Methodist Episcopal church on the 14th day of April, 1924 and remained a member of the church until the end. During his illness he was patient, hopeful and thoughtful of others. He sought to ease the burden upon the hearts of those who were dearest to him by maintaining a cheerful attitude in the face of that which to both him and his loved ones was inevitable. As the time of his departure drew near and weakness made audible speech impossible his lips continued to move in prayer. Thus he died.

He was a member of Edward Hines Chapter No. 19 of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at Chicago.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Brenner, and three brothers, Darrell, Carl and Hollis, all of Dixon. He will be missed not only by his loved ones but by a host of friends and acquaintances and especially the large group of young people who attended the funeral of their friend and schoolmate, which was held at the late residence with the Rev. Aubrey S. Moore, Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in charge. The body was laid to rest in the beautiful Oakwood cemetery, Dixon.

FAVONIAN TURNED TABLES ON RIVAL IN
THE GRAND CIRCUITDefeated Etta Druen in 2:02 Trot Thursday
at Kazoo

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 24—(AP)—Favonian, owned by Mrs. Fred Edman, defeated by Etta Druen at Toledo last week, reversed the order of things in yesterday's 2:02 trot. On the strength of last week's victory, Etta Druen was made the favorite.

Favonian, driven by Edman, took the first two heats, but gave way to Etta Druen in the final mile. In each of the heats this pair fought it out all the way around.

The two year old trot, the first event of the kind staged on the circuit this year, was reduced from a field of 12 starters to five at the close of the first heat, when seven of the colts were distanced as Charn, Vic Fleming's filly, finished the mile in 2:09 1/2. Charn duplicated the performance in the second heat.

Frank Worthing came into his own when he took the 2:11 pace, winning the first two heats and finishing second in the final mile.

Gordon Dillon upset Hot Toddy, the favorite in the year old trot, by taking the first two heats.

The management announced the third renewal of the $25,000 American Pacing Derby for 1926. Also a renewal of the $10,000 Exchange club purse for 2:08 trotters.

PIRATES AGAIN
BACK IN FIRST PLACE BY NECKTake Advantage of Opportunity to Pass
McGraw's Team

New York, July 24—(AP)—The shifting scenes of major league baseball today again starred Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at the top of the picture.

Waiting until the ninth to loose a crushing battle attack, the Pirates once more distanced the Giants at the top of the National League pile by shading the Cardinals 3-2 while the Champions were halving a double header with the Braves. Four percentage points separated the clubs today.

The American League saw-saw which has been tettering for several weeks, carried the Athletics up at one end and tossed Washington down at the other. Two home runs by Lou Gehrig of the Yanks, the second of which arrived in the seventh with the bases filled, bounced the Senators out of first place, 11-7. Honnel's 17th slab triumph of the season and timely hitting by Poole enabled the Mackmen to take advantage of the break by edging out the Red Sox 5-4.

The tumble of the Giants was in the opening melee with the Braves and Johnny Cooney was responsible.

Although he allowed the Champions 11 hits, he blanked them until the seventh and gave them only three runs over the full route while his team was gathering six off Bentley.

Smart pitching by Greenfield and a ninth inning sneaking catch by Southworth rescued the Giants in the second game 5-4.

The Cardinals-Pirate clash, a pitching duel between Haines and Yde, ended with a Pittsburgh batting storm in the final frame when Cuyler opened with a triple. Tray-nor's double and Wright's single then put the game on ice. The defeat pushed the Cardinals down into sixth place.

After Thurston had been batted from the box in the second Connolly took up the pitching burden for the White Sox and gave the Tigers only one hit during the remainder of the game. Cobb was back in the Detroit lineup after a week's suspension, but he failed to rally the club after an early start. Chicago won 8-4.

Sisler went hitless after batting safely in 22 consecutive games as the Browns trailed the Indians 10-1.

Smith gave the losers only four blines.

Aurora Races by Heats

Planned for Next Week

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Aurora, Ill., July 24—An innovation in harness horse racing in which each contest will consist of but one heat has been planned for the Grand

Circuit meeting here on July 28 to August 7. Races will be at a distance varying from four furlongs to a mile and a quarter, and money will be divided in accordance with the order of finish in each event.

Only in one race, the American

Trotting Purse $25,000 derby, will there be heats. In this event the winner must take two out of three heats at a mile.

Clifford R. Trimble, manager of the Aurora Association, suggested the plan through which it is expected that most of the horses named for the Aurora meeting will be started in two or more races on the same day.

This is one of the few times photographers have been able to snap a picture of Helen Wills, American woman tennis champion, without her tennis racket and eyeshade. Novelist Tells of Abduction, But Police Doubt Her Story.

Virginia Lee Cookson, novelist and wealthy ranch owner at Santa Ana, Calif., started the country when she returned after a mysterious disappearance with the claim that she had been kidnapped by Mexican white slavers, who kept girl victims chained to posts. California officials, however, scouted her story, Sheriff Jernigan declaring it a figment of her imagination.

Last Legal Lottery Ends

The last legal lottery in the United States ended when Bernard C. Shields, secretary of the New Orleans board of liquidation, spun the big glass wheel behind him for the last time. This signaled the retirement of the famous $20,000,000 bond issue voted fifty years ago, in which $2,500,000 in prizes to lucky bond holders were paid out. The blindfolded orphan boy, in the background, drew the lucky numbers after the wheel was spun, and somebody was richer by $5000.

The WELL DRESSED MAN By BEAUNASH

Correct Choice To Meet The Obligation Of Every Situation

Shirts for the Sports

There are sportsmen and there are near-sportsmen, but the one who comes nearest to being taken for an honest-to-goodness sportsman is the fellow who is turned out as one from head to foot. Gone are the days when it was the mark of the horny-handed "champ" at golf or tennis to be dressed in any old thing or anything old. He wore a slovenly suit which appeared to have been slept in and a disreputable hat which looked as though a charge of buckshot had been deliberately fired through the crown to make it look hardened and seasoned. He curled a mean lip at the tyro who strode upon course or court in well-cut, well-fitting knickers or "longs". He kept up his reputation for being contemptuously callous to mere appearance until one day, as from thunder-clap, he was startled by the consciousness that his game was no better than the other fellow's and that, besides, he had pinned upon himself the tattered tag—"old timer".

Dressing correctly and smartly for say, golf, does not make a "sharp-shooter" out of a "grass-cutter", but it does lend self-assurance, steadying stance and bettering form. Knowing that you look the part you play your part with added zest and keener resolve to play par. Not a little of the recent and remarkable prowess of the American at golf, polo and tennis is due to the fact that he attaches great importance to personal appearance. He recognizes that, with his clothes off his mind, he can concentrate it on his game.

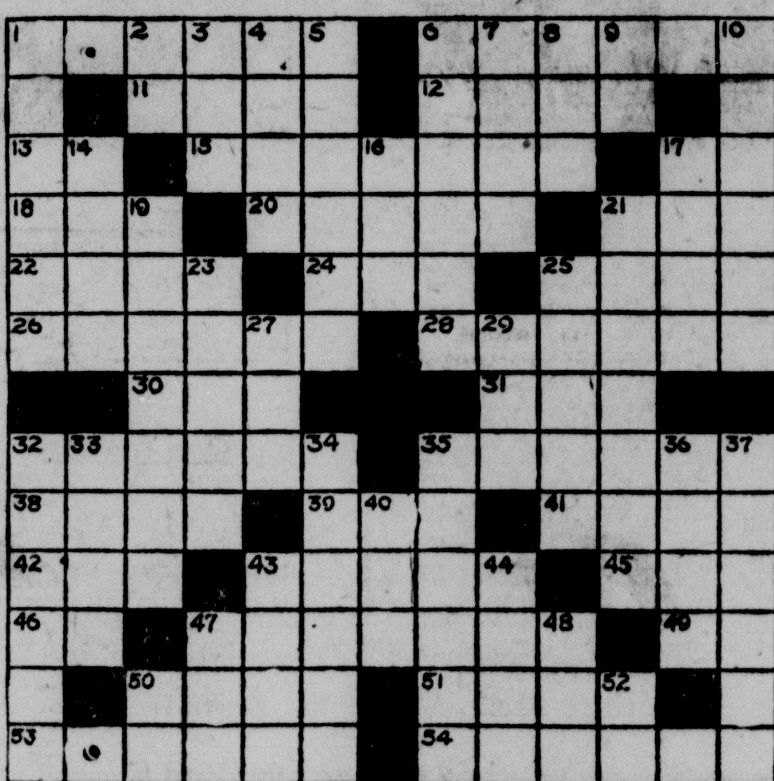

Every soft shirt worn in the country is not a sport shirt, any more than any suit is a golf suit. Your field shirt must be expressly and exclusively designed for its primary purpose—sport. It must be of the proper material and weight, so that it will be cool, absorbent and allow free shoulder-swing and body-play. It should have single barrel, so-called, or wrist-cuffs, instead of the conventional French type or double cuffs. It should, preferably, have a breast pocket with button flap.

Exactly how a smart sporting shirt for summer looks is illustrated here. This is of light-weight striped flannel, although chevot, broadcloth, solid-color or striped madras and similar fabrics are also approved. The whim of the wearer settles the question. Be good enough to observe the attached, self-colored, deep-point collar and the round wrists fastening with one or two pearl buttons.

The RED RAIN MYSTERY by

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SAMUEL HONEYBUN, retired English countryman, finds blood in his rain gauge on the morning of the murder of Sir Francis Lathrop.

SIR GUY LATHROP engaged to Margaret, daughter of the murdered man, is suspected of the murder. He escapes arrest by going into hiding at Margaret's home.

ADRIAN KLYNE, private detective, employed by Margaret, has an ally in Adela Larkin. Adela's father is a close friend of the Honeybuns. He is so intent on directing suspicion away from his friend that he plans to have Klyne, then posing as Lord Bulpetre, killed by

WILMOT Honeybun's chauffeur Adela calls on the Honeybuns with a letter from her uncle, Sir Stamps, exposing the fake Lord Bulpetre as a detective. She sends him Samuel Honeybun and his son James at home. They have just read the letter. The elder Honeybun turns to Adela, "Well—"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"FATHER thinks that Mr. Stamps's advice is sound." Adela replied. "The sham Lord Bulpetre is evidently dangerous and should be dealt with. The details are for arrangement between Wilmot and myself."

"They could not be in more capable hands," purred Mr. Honeybun. "Wilmot is probably on his way to Jem, take Miss Larkin round, will you, and then come back to me."

So Adela found herself trotting at the heels of a surly young man who—novel experience—evidently didn't like her. Wilmot was discovered in the exterminated garage, lying on his back under the car. It was a claret-colored car, not a yellow one, she was quick to note.

Wilmot scrambled to his feet. "Miss Larkin desires a few words with you," said Mr. James Honeybun. "We want you to carry out whatever she suggests."

Left alone with Wilmot Adela studied the atrocious countenance with the keen scrutiny of a student in anatomy. Cunning and cruelty were stamped on it and Adela rejoiced, those being the qualities she needed for her project.

"Wilmot, you don't feel friendly towards Miss Lathrop's private detective," she began. "I was sure of that. He has been close to your tracks more than once lately. I happen to know."

"So do I," growled the chauffeur. "He topped up by taking the girl out of my custody the other day."

"I heard of that," replied Adela, leaving it to be inferred that she had been told by the Honeybuns. "He is doubly dangerous since he humbugged Inspector Roake into taking him on as an amateur helper."

"Has he done that? That's news to me," said Wilmot. "Yes, he is masquerading as a nobleman called Lord Bulpetre. Here! read this letter from my uncle to Mr. Larkin."

Mentioning that he was "no scholar," Wilmot spelled through Mr. Stamps's warning, his bestial mouth working horribly.

"That's a bit of all right," was his comment. "His lordship is simply asking for it. I am glad that your talent has been recognized, miss, and that you are in charge. You want me to act for you. What's the idea?"

"A good one, I think. I have already commenced operations by flitting with this self-styled Lord Bulpetre."

"No one better fitted for the game," murmured Monkey-Face plausibly. "Got him feeding out of your hand, I reckon?"

Adela ignored the too candid flattery. "I have arranged to meet the man," she proceeded calmly, "at the lodge gates of the Grange tonight at eleven o'clock. It will be quite dark then. I will keep him interested while you slip in and do the trick. No shooting, of course."

"Nothing so noisy. Shant even bring a gun. Leave it to me. It will either be fingers at his throat or cold steel in his ribs. There won't be any mistake. That's the swine that's been treading on my toes all along."

Adela had promised Monkey-Face that it would be dark at eleven o'clock. An hour before that Lord Bulpetre could only grope his way through the village, and out on the open road beyond he twice ran into the hedge. But at last he came to his rendezvous at the gates of the Grange lodge, and a shadowy figure laid taper fingers on his arm.

"Your lordship is more than punctual," a fragrant breath whispered in his ear. "Come a little nearer to the lodge. I want the light from the window to shine upon us. I said I would keep you interested, so I will talk pretty."

"I will try," was the rejoinder. "But I have got to be rude first. I shall never make you Lady Bulpetre. You are quite clear on that?"

"Quite clear. But I am clearer still that you will make me some thing else. Just think how frightful it would have been if the original Sherlock's Watson had been a woman and Sherlock had had to marry her to prevent her from showing him up as a donkey."

"That is to be rude first. I shall never make you Lady Bulpetre. You are quite clear on that?"

"Quite clear. But I am clearer still that you will make me some thing else. Just think how frightful it would have been if the original Sherlock's Watson had been a woman and Sherlock had had to marry her to prevent her from showing him up as a donkey."

FABLES ON HEALTH

Singing is a great aid to health.

Correct standing and breathing are encouraged by singing and the subsequent development of the chest makes one feel better generally.

Sanatoriums, hospitals and other health institutes and industrial concerns are realizing the value of singing and many have daily periods set for such exercise.

For one to sing it is necessary to have musical accompaniment, which is also a great health aid.

Music promotes digestive functions, relieves fatigue and calms the nerves.

If in singing a person will stand before an open window and breathe deeply it will force air into the lower lobes of the lungs, which are often used but little.

This will also have a tendency to improve the speech.

Singing is a medicine which all can take without complaining "how bitter" it tastes.

If you have not insured your car it will be to your advantage to talk over with H. U. Bardwell, the insurance man, East First St., Dixon, Ill.

Be careful about reducing or you are liable to reduce your chances of living.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

FRIDAY, JULY 24

If so, you have great charm.

You are fond of praise and appreciation.

But sometimes lacking in judgment. You are daring and assertive.

And very restless.

If a woman, you are a fine cook. You are intense in love.

And devoted to your children.

You are neat and tidy.

If a man, you are very forceful. And very combative.

You stop at nothing.

You know no fear.

But you are a generous foe.
